

For my full comp, I decided to go with my second style-tile. I choose it based on a few reasons. I thought that it looked more professional and more portfolio-like. Also, it is much easier to read all the text then my first style-tile. I think it not enough to just create a style-tile and not a full comp because I can add so many details and fix the final product. Style-tiles are still great to be organized and to help brainstorm many different ideas. For each design, I spent about half-an-hour deciding what I wanted to do and another hour actually creating my design.
